

MORRIS COUNTY CONSERVATION DISTRICT HAS NEW BUFFER and TWIN LAKES WRAPS COORDINATOR

Angela Beavers was raised on her family's farm in western Morris County. She graduated from White City High School and then followed up by attending and graduating from Kansas State University. GO CATS!! After a few years living in Kansas City, Angela followed her heart back close to home marrying Pat Beavers in 1988 and moving on to their farm in southern Geary County. Pat and Angela have three sons, Jerod, Jacob and Jace. Jerod is self employed in the fencing business that he and his brothers operate and also helps out with his Grandparent's farming operation. Jacob is a Freshman at Cloud County Community College and Jace is a Freshman at White City High School. The family runs a cow calf operation and farms in between attending ball games.

Angela loves to bake cookies and read when she isn't keeping score or cheering at one of her son's sporting activities. She is the Chairperson of the PAWS committee for the White City Schools and serves as the secretary for the Baseball Association.

In 2005 Angela began working as the Buffer Coordinator and Water Quality Coordinator for the Geary County Conservation District. In 2007, she also took over as the Clarks Creek WRAPS Project Coordinator. She has now added similar duties for the Morris County Conservation District. Angela is serving as the Morris County Conservation District Buffer Coordinator and the Twin Lakes WRAPS Coordinator. She will be splitting her time between the Junction City and Council Grove offices and will be glad to visit with producers from either county no matter where she is hanging her hat that day.
